

NEWSLETTER

COVID 9 edition

June 2020

Look to this day for it is the very life of life, in its brief course lie all the verities and realities of your existence, the glory of action, the bliss of growth and the splendour of beauty.
Yesterday is but a dream, tomorrow, only a vision but to-day, well lived, makes every yesterday a dream of happiness and every tomorrow a vision of hope

This ancient Sanskrit poem was beautifully written out by Beryl Woolford.

Strawberries thanks to Nick.

Back to the club – well nearly!!

Message from Jim Hughes

I would like take this opportunity to thank our front line maintenance team for all their work to maintain the green and garden area during the last 3 months of lock down, which has now, enable you all to play a game of bowls.

There is no way I could have achieved this without their help.

They are, in no particular order, Tony Ret (hedgerow Tony), Eric, Ian, Nick, Roland, Peter, Terry and Chris.

My best wishes to you all and keep safe, remember to keep your bowls two metres from the jack as usual!

And along comes Mary and ignores your advice, Jim

Dare I touch it, I think I can see some viruses on it.

Two early birds. Mort and Tony P

Yes! Social distancing maintained.

How has the pandemic affected our sartorial style?

Not quite up to Ronaldo or Bale standard!

The hair is longer but I think that might be our treasurer behind the mask.

And on the green.

We played on 2 lovely warm days at the same time as Nick W and Roland and on another day as the Musgraves.

Watched by Jamie.

He is credited with the blossoming of Sheila Lowe's rose!

What a year this has been for roses

One of Sandie's

and for many other plants in Sandie's garden.

Meanwhile, some things have not changed.

Den is still resting.

Does that tray mention coffee? Not much of that in sight.

I heard a rumour that Den offered Maureen a Lucozade!!

Surely not!

Maureen won it at the Harrow v Herga match.

Lucky Maureen!

These things can't be wasted during lockdown.

In addition to imbibing alcohol, members of the club have been fully occupied in a number of activities.

Peter Swaffield reported :

Been having a bit of fun on the model railway, you know idle hands and all that and created a mobile fish and chip shop in the name of "Barracuda".

Yiannis has been spotted at the local cricket match and a Bus Rally. Looks like he will be open for business from Tuesday with obvious restrictions but we plan to enjoy some fish and chips as soon as we can.

Jigsaws have been made and swapped.

This one by Pat Austin.

I have been trying to keep my younger daughter sane by doing some home schooling with the youngest grandson.

We were studying a map of the UK and managed to find 8 words for “high up” places on the map. I hate word searches but he said he liked them so I devised one and sent it to him with the 8 words plus the abbreviation the map uses for mountains. As some of you are daft enough to like 1000 word jigsaws I think there may be some who would like to do the simple word search. You have to find the other 7 words yourself of course. Who will get it first?

A wordsearch for Highview.

All the words are for high places

u	p	L	a	n	d	s	v	m	d
b	a	m	n	u	v	q	z	b	w
h	d	q	b	o	c	l	d	k	e
i	u	d	e	p	w	j	a	x	s
g	m	o	u	n	t	a	i	n	f
h	l	w	g	g	b	o	t	e	u
L	w	n	d	h	h	m	f	q	y
a	c	s	f	d	p	i	k	e	i n	h	v	k	e	g	d	L	p	h
d	l	n	a	m	z	j	w	L	n
s	e	k	f	x	c	n	m	o	s.

Hopefully there will be more participants than Nick Woolford received for the Crystal ball competition. He has decided there are too few entrants. We are all delighted to be able to go to the club even under very strict rules but of course we are a long way from club night.

STOP PRESS:

We can now play doubles and triples

but

must be booked in advance

and sorry Solo

Still no tea and biscuits

